Although Nash County was formed in 1777 from Edgecombe County, little can be said about its population ratio until the first Federal Census was taken in 1790. The county boasted a total population in 1790 of 7,393 of which 29.7% were non-white (approximately 2,190). The population had dropped by 1800 to 6,975 with 39.3% or 2,741 non-whites. The decrease of the white population is testimony of migration to other states such as Georgia and Tennessee. The above graph shows the population growth until 1860 at which time there was a total population of 11,687 with 5,364 (45.9%) non-white residents in Nash County.

This text contained in this book is the result of petitions to the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions for the division of personal property (slaves) and is a continuation of Nash County North Carolina Division of Estate Slaves 1829 - 1861. I have once again elected to provide a transcription in lieu of an abstraction. I will take credit for typos, however, misspelled words and math errors are those of record.

Although each division has been assigned a number, the indexing used refers back to page number. A number in parenthesis immediately following the page number indicates the number of times the name is on that page. No number in parenthesis means the name appears on that page one time.

Many of the estate slave divisions contained within this book were not recorded in Nash County's deed books. When tied to the real estate divisions recorded in the deed books, a better understanding of an ancestor's life will emerge.

With the end of the War Between the States came the beginning of a new South. The North Carolina General Assembly in it's 1866 session ratified an act on March 10 concerning negroes and persons of color. In Section (5), Chapter 40, the cohabitation of former slaves was to be recorded in the clerk's office of the court of pleas and quarter sessions in order to ratify their state of marriage. The Court Clerk was to maintain a record book for this purpose. Section (6), Chapter 40 made it a misdemeanor if this was not done by September 1, 1866. This was later extended to January 1, 1868.

Nash County's Clerk of Court had started a new book for recording the division of estate slaves and managed to use 33 pages for that purpose. The remainder of the book was used to record the acknowledgment of former slaves concerning their cohabitation.

The source for this work is microfilm C.069:61001.
